

ANOTHER RACE
DECLARED OFFWIND TOO LIGHT FOR THE YACHT RACE.

Reliance Less Than Half Mile
From Finish When Time Expired—Shamrock Far Behind —Will Try Again To Day.

New York, Aug. 31.—Again to day the Reliance failed to register her third victory over the challenger because the wind died to nothing and the time limit expired before she could reach the finish line. She was less than half a mile from the finish when the gun sounded. The Shamrock was a faint blur on the horizon, fully two and a half miles astern. The Reliance's failure to score the race was the more exasperating because her ultimate triumph is now conceded, even by Sir Thomas himself, to be simply a formality.

The easterly wind and rain last night served to knock down the sea somewhat, although it was rough enough the first two hours of the race to make the yachts plunge and stagger on their way to the outer mark. But as the day wore on the wind hauled to the north and fell to a mere zephyr, hardly strong enough to round out the enormous canvases of the sloops and the sea subsided to a smooth surface.

The race was spiritless from the beginning. It was laid fifteen miles to windward, up the Long Island shore and return. Its saving feature was the start, in which Wringe, by a pretty piece of maneuvering, neatly turned the tables on the Yankee skipper and captured the windward berth. Even so, the yachts crossed the line abreast like a harnessed team of horses. But within fifteen minutes the defender was showing her heels to the challenger and when the float at the outer mark was reached she rounded it twenty minutes and twenty-three seconds ahead of her rival. This was by far the worst beating the Shamrock has had in windward work. The only interest which remained after that was whether the Reliance would be able to reach the finish line in time to score the race.

Two minutes before the starting gun the Shamrock headed up into the wind, tacked and forced the Reliance to drop some and both ran for the line, the Reliance leading. They reached it before the starting gun and the Reliance had to run along the lee side of it to await the gun. The Shamrock reached the line as the gun sounded, and not having to sheer off, secured a weather position. It was a trick which Barr had worked often, but never with better fitness or more satisfactory results. The official starting time of both yachts was 11:45:26.

The first tack was five minutes after crossing the line and put the Shamrock ahead, but under the lee bow of the Reliance. Wringe gave his boat a good full and the way she began to walk away from the defender made it look as though she had found herself at last. But this was for only a few minutes. When he began to pinch her in the wind it was apparent the Reliance was outpointing the challenger and altogether making better work of it. The held on one tack east southeast for nearly an hour. During that time the defender worked up to windward a good quarter of a mile. When the Reliance tacked the Shamrock refused to follow, so Barr put his craft on the port tack again. This placed the Reliance a mile north of the Shamrock. Fifteen minutes later the wind shifted to the northeast and placed the American boat that distance dead to windward, not half of which she had actually earned. From that time the Reliance gained steadily. When off Long Beach at 1:45 the defender was two miles ahead, having added a second mile by literally outpointing the challenger and at the same time maintaining an equal speed. The challenger's cause was absolutely hopeless when the defender rounded the mark. The British boat was more than two miles alee and coming slowly. Time at outer mark: Reliance, 2:00:37; Shamrock, 3:21:00.

With the wind abate the beam, the main sheet well in and the balloner belling the Reliance made good time on the reach homeward and drew away from the challenger until the wind softened, when the speed of both slackened. The Shamrock caught the freshening wind first and cut down the Reliance's lead a half mile before the leader caught it. The Reliance steadily gained until she had made good her two mile lead and added another half mile to it. In trying to hold wind in their jib topsails both yachts had to run off their course, but at 4:30 both set their spinnakers and headed straight for the finish. The wind was dying away and the spinnakers drew poorly. The Reliance was moving not more than four miles an hour and the Shamrock was two miles and a half astern when the committee boat signalled the race was off. Both immediately took in sail and were taken in tow for Sandy Hook.

The regatta committee announced to await the yachts will race again to morrow.

MAN'S REASON.Peoria Switchman Becomes Insane as Result of Work He Engaged in During East
St. Louis Disaster.

Peoria, Aug. 31.—Lloyd Hotchkin, a switchman in the employ of the Illinois Central railroad, will be taken to the insane hospital at Jacksonville for treatment to day. His case is a most peculiar one, his insanity being the result of the recent flood in East St. Louis. During that time the unfortunate man was engaged with other employees of the company in the work of saving the tracks in the submerged district, and for several days worked in water waist deep.

Shortly after returning to the city from East St. Louis he was taken ill with malaria, which developed into typhoid fever, and ever since he has been confined in a hospital. Several days ago he suddenly lost his reason and became so violent that it was found necessary to move him to the county jail. Late Saturday evening Judge Bassett of the probate court, after hearing the report of a commission appointed to investigate into his condition, adjudged him insane and ordered him taken to the state institution for treatment.

MADE A CONFESSION

Number of Gang of Robbers and Murderers in Custody.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—After careful examination of seven suspects held by the police in connection with the murder of Frank Stewart and John B. Johnson, employees of the Chicago City Railroad company and looting the company's safe early Sunday, police declared a belief they have captured the ringleader of the band of robbers and murderers. It is reported he made a confession, in which he named three companions.

Three detectives were sent to Iowa to night to search for the men who held out the car barn and shot three men Sunday morning. Information has been received here that three men answering the description of the robbers were put off a passenger train near the Iowa and Illinois boundary line early yesterday morning. The men were riding on a blind baggage and when ordered to leave the train threatened to shoot the conductor, saying they had already killed one man during the night. The description of these men corresponds with the men described by Leuder, one of the suspects now held for the crime. Leuder, it is said, has confessed he was implicated in the holdup. He admitted, it is said, that he was watching for police while his companions were looting the office of the company. Leuder says the men are strangers to him and that he is unable to give their names. According to Leuder's story, he was to receive $1,000 for his part in the holdup, but says the robbers gave him nothing. Police are inclined to doubt Leuder's confession.

WORRY CAUSES SUICIDE.

Springfield, Aug. 31.—Because of ill health and despondency through fear that he would be compelled to stop working, Frederick Charles Kerst, of 1420 South Eleventh street, committed suicide this morning at about 1 o'clock by cutting his throat.

Mr. Kerst was a blacksmith and was well known in Springfield, where he was born and has lived all his life. No cause can be assigned other than that given. He had not been seriously ill, but for the past two days he had been complaining of feeling bad and began worrying because he feared that he would grow so sick that he could not work. TURKS AND
BULGARIANSIT IS THOUGHT WILL EN-

Officials at Sofia Contend Nothing but a Miracle Can Prevent a Clash—Refugees Tell of Atrocities Committed.

Sofia, Aug. 31.—Both in official and revolutionary circles the opinion is freely held that war between Bulgaria and Turkey is imminent, and can be averted by nothing short of a miracle. A local paper prints a telegram from Constantinople declaring the sultan, influenced by the counsels of Germany, now favors war with Bulgaria.

The Bulgarian agent at Uskub reports detachments of Turkish troops, sent to garrison small towns in that vilayet, have spread destruction along their route; villages have been robbed and beaten; women violated, and the Christian population subjected to every conceivable outrage, while local authorities appear to be helpless to stop the atrocities. The Bulgarian agent specifies similar excesses in many other villages and the position of Bulgarian residents is reported to be terrible, as cruelties committed by the Turkish authorities have exceeded all limits.

Salonica, Aug. 31.—Turks have occupied Kilkisra, Albania, without resistance. A number of Bulgarian villages in its vicinity were burned. Some Turkish officers Aug. 29, sold fifteen cases of Martini rifles and a quantity of ammunition to Bulgarians.

The refugees say the Turkish garrison fired upon the Bulgarian port of Malkotirino with the object of creating the impression a revolution was in progress. The notables refused to do so and the first man who refused was hanged the following day.

If the Turkish minister requested the European squadron to be kept away from Turkish waters his request probably cannot be granted, even should this government desire to accede to it, as the navy department states it will be impossible to communicate with either the Brooklyn or San Francisco until their arrival at Beirut.

SNUBBED THE KAISER

Americans Visiting in Germany
Refuse Invitation to Call at the Palace.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—H. Wieman, of Baltimore, Md., when in Germany recently refused an invitation conveyed by the finance minister to visit the kaiser. The rejection of such an invitation is almost unprecedented and Mr. Wieman's action has caused widespread resentment. The Neueste Nachrichten describes it as another link in the long chain of re-buffs Germany has sustained by courting American friendship. The paper attacks Finance Minister Rheinbaben for thus exposing the kaiser to slight by an American tourist and asks "Must every American globe trotter be invited to court?"

The Staatsbeiger Zeitung says: "These Americans do not appreciate the honor of an invitation to the German court."

The Tage Zeitung says: "Every German rankles with shame at the humiliation to which Rheinbaben has exposed the fatherland."

Many other persons were also arrested on the same charge. The French and German ministers at Caracas protested and obtained the immediate release of their fellow countrymen.

DANISH WEST INDIES.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—The Natal Zeitung says the Danish West Indies commission is said to have reported as follows to the finance minister: "The population of the islands is satisfied to run under Danish rule. Whites hope from the newly awakened interest of Denmark in the island for improvement of economic conditions and the fostering of civilizing influences. He assured the emperor of the continuance of the feeling of friendship which he had inherited from Queen Victoria, and concluded by appointing Emperor Francis Joseph a field marshal in the British army. The announcement created a deep impression and the emperor arose, bowed and pressed King Edward's hands.

But at that, luckily no one was injured.

The origin of the blaze is unknown, and as there is absolutely no fire protection in the village the loss was total. Mr. Winsler estimates that the building was worth $4,000. He had it insured for $1,000. The furnishings were worth perhaps $2,000 and the insurance on that amounted to $1,200.

Agricultural Department Issues Bulletin Saying Agitation of Question of Impure Milk has Caused Needless Worry.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The agricultural department has made a contribution to the general discussion on the quality of milk supplied to cities, in the shape of a bulletin on that subject, a large part of which is devoted to the question of transportation. The bulletin says the agitation of the question of impure milk has resulted in improved practices on the part of persons handling this article of food, but there is still much room for improvement.

IDEAL VESSEL UNDISCOVERED.
Attention is called to the fact that the ideal vessel for the conveyance of milk remains to be discovered. There are many cities and towns which have no legal regulations whatever concerning milk.

The opinion is expressed that the agitation of the question has caused much unnecessary alarm. The figures show that one thousand millions gallons of milk are sold annually, and the average quantity per capita consumed daily in the largest cities is somewhat less than two-thirds of a pint.

TEXT OF THE REPORT.
The report says in part: "The practice of pasteurization appears to be gradually extending. Yet the medical fraternity is divided in its opinion as to its efficacy and the best sentiment favors natural milk produced and delivered in such a pure and protected condition as to be greatly superior to any pasteurized article. Too often milk is offered for sale with the claim that it has been pasteurized, when it has actually been more harmed than helped, the process to which it has been subjected being unworthy of name. If done at pasteurization should be in the hands of competent persons, having efficient apparatus."

Many suggestions are made for the improvement of the milk supply.

MOVEMENT OF LIVESTOCK.
Internal commerce conditions throughout the United States, as reflected by the July report of the department of commerce and labor, through its bureau of statistics, are quite satisfactory. Receipts of live stock at five markets this year to the end of July, amounted to 17,734,647 head. Last year, 17,222,004 head were reported to the corresponding date, and 15,599,323 head in 1901. In 1901 a total of 374,976 cars of stock arrived at the same five markets, 305,419 cars in 1902 and 341,502 cars in 1903. The total receipts of stock for this year were divided as follows: At Chicago, 8,577,847 head in 170,565 cars; at Kansas City, 2,650,337 head in 54,216 cars; at Omaha, 2,731,584 head in 49,225 cars; at St. Louis, 2,001,945 head in 37,773 cars; at St. Joseph, 173,260 head in 30,023 cars. July receipts of cattle at Chicago this year were the heaviest since 1892, with the single exception of those of July 1901. The increase in natives as compared with range and Texan stocks was characteristic of July arrivals.

The state of the provision market as indicated by the stocks on hand at the five cities July 31, is significant of lowering prices. On that date in 1901, there were 27,801,245 pounds of cut meats reported on hand. In 1902 the corresponding reserve was 260,889,057 pounds, compared with 262,438,440 pounds in 1903.

MILEAGE SQUABBLE.
Chicago, Aug. 31.—The fight in the Western Passenger association over the adoption of a new mileage book is becoming so personal and bitter that there is a possibility of its wrecking the organization. The committee having in charge the rules and regulations for the government of the proposed bureau met again Saturday and tried in vain to bring some order out of the general chaos. The situation at present is this: All of the lines except the Wabash, Missouri Pacific, Santa Fe and one or two other southwestern roads have signed the agreement to adopt the new 2,000-mile book unconditionally. The Rock Island stands firmly for a continuation of the credential system, threatening to make severe reprisals if the other lines withdraw the use of their old book. These threats, or at least a fear of what the Rock Island may do, have led some of its competitors to hesitate upon entering the new bureau.

SAW STOLEN GEESSE IN DREAMS.
Bloomington, Aug. 31.—Leroy Ferris, a well known citizen of Lexington, is in receipt of a remarkable letter from a resident of the state of Washington, inclosing a money order for $5. The writer stated that about thirty years ago, while living upon a farm adjoining that of Mr. Ferris, he killed two or three geese belonging to the latter.

No charges had ever been filed against him and he did not know whether he had been under suspicion or not, but of late years he had been seeing the geese in his dreams. They flew around him constantly during his sleeping hours and he was forced to send the money, hoping to get relief from the horrible nightmare caused by the constant flapping of their wings and the incessant hissing from their snake-like heads.

Mr. Ferris immediately acknowledged receipt of the remittance and expressed a hope that the spell would be lifted from the conscience-stricken man.

Syracuse, Aug. 31.—The fourteenth annual convention of the National Association of Letter Carriers opened to day, a thousand delegates being in attendance. Reports of officers showed the organization in a prosperous condition. Partisans of Portland, Ore., Minneapolis and Quincy, Ill., are making a lively fight for the next convention, which will be held in 1905.

DYSENTERY CURED WITHOUT THE AID OF A DOCTOR.

"I am just up from a hard spell of the flux" (dysentery), says Mr. T. A. Pinner, a well known merchant of Drummond, Tenn. "I used one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and was cured without having a doctor. I consider it the best cholera medicine in the world." There is no need of employing a doctor when this remedy is used, for no doctor can prescribe a better medicine for bowel complaint in any form either for children or adults. It never fails and is pleasant to take. For sale by all druggists.

PHILIPPINE VETERANS.

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—Veterans of the army of the Philippines are arriving to day on every train to participate in the fourth annual convention. It is estimated 3,000 are in the city. The first business session was held at two this afternoon, at which Governor Vansant delivered the address of welcome, which was responded to by General Hale, president of the organization.

A SURE CURE FOR DIARRHOEA.

Coming as it does, in the hottest season when a man can least afford to lose time, a sure and quick cure for diarrhoea is very desirable. Anyone who has given it a trial will tell you that the quickest, surest and most pleasant remedy in use for this disease is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. There is no loss of time when it is used, as one or two doses of it will cure any ordinary attack. It never fails, not even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by all druggists.

FEMALE EMPLOYEES TO GO.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—There is consternation among the woman employes of the Northwestern railway. By a general order of the company the employment of women in any capacity on the entire system is barred. Since the issuance of this order the women stenographers in the general offices of the company have suddenly acquired domestic tastes and matrimonial proclivities, formerly unsuspected. None of the young women have been discharged, but they admit an uncomfortable feeling of not being wanted. Personal stenographers to various officials have been relegated to the outside offices among the general clerks. The Northwestern officials are not adverse to the softening and refining influences of women and personally are said to regret the ultimate loss of the women stenographers, but business is business, they say, and it has been decided that the women must go.

The reason for this decision is found partially in the pension system, which naturally carries with it civil service. Women stenographers are always women stenographers. It is claimed, unless they get married, and are not fitted for promotion under civil service rules in force on railroads with pension systems.

CHANGE IN TIME.

The change in time on the Wabash yesterday caused fully twenty people to miss their train. Most of them were people who reside between here and Springfield, who had come in on the morning train and had failed to see the notice in the papers regarding the change of time. The Springfield-Bloomington accommodation is the only train affected by the change and it leaves here at 3:12 p. m. instead of 3:05.

HONOR FOR THE MULE.

Will Have Prominent Place in St. Louis Fair. The mule that has helped to make Missouri famous, will be honored at the Louisiana Purchase exposition, says a St. Louis dispatch. The long suffering, silent, plodding, inoffensive and staid beast is to be given a place in the live stock display at the world's fair. His prowess on the battlefield, as shown in the Boer war, in the peaceful Missouri valley, on the plains of the west, in the marshes of the south, is to receive recognition.

N. W. Gentry of the state commission consulted with F. D. Coburn, chief of the live stock department of the fair. Mr. Coburn agreed with Mr. Gentry that the mule had earned a place and it was decided that from the $250,000 set apart for live stock liberal cash prizes and many of them should be given to be competed for by representative mules.

"No need to make a special effort to get fine horses shown at the world's fair," said Mr. Gentry, "nor to get fine cattle, sheep or swine. Just announce the premium list and they will swarm in."

"Here is where the mule is handicapped. He is a hybrid. He cannot reproduce himself, and no matter how fine the mule he cannot perpetuate the breed. Each individual mule stands on his own merits."

"At the Chicago exposition there were only four mules shown. At the 1904 exposition mules will be numbered by the hundreds. Colonel J. W. Jones of Columbia, Mo., secretary of the American Breeders' Association of Jacks and Jennets, will work with the live stock department, and the finest collection of mules the world has ever seen will be the result."

"The mule helped to build the beautiful exposition and it is only right that he should come in for recognition and be allowed to compete for honors."

HELD AS FILIBUSTERS.

Chicago Men Arrested For Inciting West Indian Trouble.

Six men who sailed away from Chicago a year ago in search of a gold mine in the wilds of Patagonia are now under arrest at Turks Island, in the West Indies, suspected of filibustering, says the Chicago Tribune. Their arrest and the detention of their schooner, Mercury, has been laid before the secretary of state.

Charles Corrigan, a Texas cowboy, came to Chicago last fall, watched lake sailors for a month and then took five men into his confidence. One of them told a mate he was going to South America.

"Corrigan knows a place in Patagonia where there is more gold than a man can carry away in a ship load," he said. "We have bought the Mercury, and we'll bring back half a dozen fortunes."

Corrigan admitted he had a map showing the location of a gold mine rivaling that of King Solomon. His story was that his discoverer had been driven out by natives and when he died on a ranch he gave the drawings to Corrigan.

The Mercury sailed for New Orleans in October. It was to cross the gulf of Mexico and cruise along the coast of South America to Patagonia. Charles Hardin was the master and owner, according to the ship's papers, and Emil Von Boroucke was first mate.

When the news of the arrests reached Chicago the mystery surrounding the cruise was swept aside. The story of the gold mine was not credited even when the men left, but there was no other mission which would account for the trip.

TEACHERS WIN STRIKE.

Compel School Board to Grant Advance in Wages.

The schoolteachers in Adams township, Champaign county, O., went out on a strike three months ago for higher wages, and the matter has just been settled by the board of education agreeing to give the teachers what they asked. The board has only been paying $40 per month for teachers, and the teachers in a body, with the superintendent, informed the board that they would not teach any more unless they were given a raise of $5 per month.

The board at first refused to grant the demand. The schoolteachers were well organized, and they prevented any applications from being filed with the board for the positions, which was unable to get other teachers. At a recent meeting the board was compelled to give the striking teachers $45 per month.

Odd Occupation For Women.

There is a new, odd and rapidly developing industry attracting attention on the northern outskirts of the city, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. It is the making of files for fishermen, and it is conducted by a woman. Miss Carrie Frost is her name. She comes from a race of fishermen, learning how to make the lures for fish from her father and uncle. So aptly did she apply her "art" that her files were eagerly sought by fishermen in the neighborhood of her home, and out of this demand grew a modest shop, the owner branching out gradually by first teaching a couple of girls the intricate part of the game. This was two years ago, and the industry has grown so fast several additions have been made to the one story shanty which the owner and which was built for a bowling alley, and now the woman employs from sixty to seventy girls the year round.

NOT OVER-WISE.

There is an old allegorical picture of a girl scared at a grass-hopper, but in the act of heedlessly treading on a snake. This is paralleled by the man who spends a large sum of money building a cyclone cellar, but neglects to provide his family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a safeguard against bowel complaints, whose victims outnumber those of the cyclone a hundred to one. This remedy is everywhere recognized as the most prompt and reliable medicine in use for these diseases. For sale by all druggists.

Leo Hatch's drug store and used it. The effect was prompt and in a short time the trouble was removed. Illinois Telephone Company Plans to Have Connection With Springfield.

The Illinois Telephone company finished a line to Springfield Monday and have now established communication with that city. Their wires go into the offices of the Interstate Telephone and Telegraph company, which has recently established an independent exchange in Springfield and have already installed a large number of phones. The Illinois company will have access to every wire owned by this company, which not only gives them the whole of Springfield, but also includes Peoria, Pekin, Joliet, Aurora, Elgin and many other cities in the above named district. The line leading from Jacksonville touches at every station along the Wabash railroad between here and Springfield, thus covering a local territory of much interest to patrons here, and giving a quick connection into the capital city.

EARS AND EATING.

Gladstone liked to dine with listeners. He not only chewed every mouthful thirty-five times, but he monopolized the conversation. It takes a clear brain as well as a pair of ears to listen brilliantly. That's why students and scholars and people generally who hope to learn as they live need Moco Cereal Coffee. If you drink Moco, The Food Drink, the perfect coffee substitute, you're good for everything all the time. Does for the brain and nerves what roast beef does for the body—nourishes while stimulating. The flavor is delicious, so is the aroma.—Man's Best Drink.

CHILD IS BETTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Duer returned to their home from Michigan, where they have been spending the summer last Wednesday and it is supposed that the sickness of their son was due to a change of climate. The condition of the child grew rapidly worse between Wednesday and Saturday and Sunday morning Dr. F. P. Norbury, of this city, was sent for. Dr. Norbury remained with the child Sunday night and Monday morning, and left feeling assured that his patient was out of danger.

Now is the time to buy school dresses. At Phelps & Osborne's rush sale this morning at 9 o'clock the price is 49c yard.

"DARKNESS AND DAYLIGHT."

Will commence the current season at the Grand on Wednesday night, Sept. 2. Never before has this popular book of Mary J. Holmes been seen in dramatic form, and from all reports it has made a charming comedy-drama. No one who has ever read Mrs. Holmes' delightful story will want to miss seeing her play, for it has lost none of its charms of scene or character by being put behind the footlights. It is a southern story—domestic in atmosphere—and it has a story of substance, a love story, and some cleverly conceived and enjoyable comedy.

DID QUICK WORK.

The condition of Central park Sunday morning was the occasion of much favorable comment, as the transformation from the night previous was complete. Everything in and about the park was neat and clean and the grass while tramped out in some places, in the main was not greatly damaged.

WEATHER WAS COLD.

It is seldom indeed that steam heat is necessary as early as Aug. 31. In a number of buildings yesterday, however, a fire was started in the morning to take off the chill and steam was kept up all day at the J. & St. L. general offices.

BARRY DEFEATED

By Score of 6 to 2—Errors on the Part of Visitors Cost Them the Game—Locals Win 3 out of 5 Games.

The local fans were all present Sunday to see Barry and Jacksonville again cross bats for the fifth time this season, each team having taken two games of the four previous ones played, this game playing off the tie. Every available seat and all the standing room was taken by the large crowd that saw the local team win easily by a score of 6 to 2. Barry has played much better ball and Sunday must have surely been an off day, for every error made was costly, and the total of eight which they made gave the locals a lead that could not be overcome. Bill Cadigan missed his train at Alton and his absence made necessary a change in the line-up of the locals. Mike Hackett went to first and Magill behind the bat. Although the boys much regretted meeting the Barry team with this change in their line-up, the game that they played gave only added evidence that they are an aggregation of ball players under any and all circumstances. The game was a pitcher's battle and Norris, for the locals, never played in better form and Barry only succeeded in pulling four hits off his delivery. Jeffries had lots of speed and held the locals down to six hits and those well scattered, while he made ten Jacksonville men lay down the bat after the third miss.

First inning—Three men went out in one, two, three order. Haner hit a slow grounder to Franz and went out at first; Welch put an easy one in to Norris' left hand and was out at first, and Fitzpatrick repeated Haner's act. Hanchen put a sharp one to short and was thrown out at first; Livingstone got his usual base on balls; Hackett knocked a high fly to center and went out, and Norris came on for a two-bagger, bringing Livingstone in for a score. Hagel slipped an easy grounder to Jeffries, who threw him out at first for the third out.

Second—Hazen raised a foul fly over third base line, which Norris got; McDaniel sent one scorching down to second and Hagel threw him out at first; Jeffries sailed a nice fly over to Hagel for third out. Magill came up and after three terrific swings quit the box; Franz put an easy grounder to short, who fumbled it long enough for him to get to first; Shannahan fanned three times and was thrown out at first on Hazen's muff; Franz went on to second. Kennedy swatted the ball for a long hit into left field and Franz came home. Hanchen tried a fly in left field, which made the third out.

Third—Hurt was first man to make a hit for Barry and poked a short fly into center field; Berry got to first on a grounder to Norris, which retired Hurt at second. Hays tried a grounder to Franz and went out at first and Haner flew out to Shannahan.

In the last half of the third Jacksonville made two runs. Livingstone opened up things by striking out; Hackett sent a hot grounder through short stop; Norris bunted the ball and got to first and Hackett to second on third baseman's slow play; Hagel struck out, but Hazen muffed the third and he got to first safely, but Hackett was forced out at third. Magill struck a mean liner into short, who failed to stop it and Norris came home; Franz got his base on balls; Magill stole third and Hazen's bad throw to stop Franz at second let Magill score; Shannahan struck out. Score 4 to 0.

The fourth inning was a blank for both, and in the first half of the fifth Barry drew a blank and in the last half the locals made their last score. Hackett put a nice fly into Berry's hands, but he dropped it. Norris tried the same territory, but Berry took it in. Hackett stole second; Hagel set a single over short stop and got to first, advancing Hackett to third. Magill laid on for another twister around short stop and Hackett came home, followed by Hagel on a bad throw by Haner. Franz went out at first on a grounder to Welch and Shannahan risked a fly too far into center, making the third out. Score 6 to 0.

Barry made their fourth and last hit in the first half of the sixth and also their first score. In this inning Norris sprung a surprise on the visitors and also the umpire by introducing a test play, which as yet is not covered by any rule in the national game and therefore no decision could be given by the umpire. With two men on bases Norris turned to first apparently to catch the runner, who was playing off and threw wild over the head of Hackett. The man at third started home and Norris took from under his arm as was supposed another ball and threw to Magill. The wild throw he had made at first was done with a potato, so Norris says, while he also had the ball in his possession. Hazen was not caught off third, however, and after a short wrangle the game again proceeded. Umpire Towers said there was no rule applicable to potato throwing in a ball game and the only remedy would be to have the police guard the potato patch until after the game. Barry made her first score; Welch sent a grounder to Franz, whose error let him to first; Fitzpatrick knocked a slow grounder to Hagel and Welch was thrown out at second; Hazen got a slow grounder near first and landed safe; McDaniel sent a long liner near center field, bringing in Fitzpatrick. Jeffries came up to bat and here occurred the potato racket. McDaniel getting to second on the strength of it; Jeffries was hit; Hurt knocked a pop-up foul fly to Hackett and went out, followed by Berry, who struck out. Score 6 to 1.

In the seventh no scoring. The eighth was a blank and in the first half of the ninth Haner scored on Franz' error and the game closed amid great enthusiasm, which began from the time the first ball was thrown. The score:

COLORADO RIVER GOLD AND COPPER COMPANY.

An opportunity for investment is now offered to his old friends by W. O. Dresback in the Colorado River Gold and Copper company. This is a MINE and is now being worked, taking out ore of HIGH VALUES. Two true fissure veins running parallel with each other for forty-five hundred (4,500) feet. The ore is gold and copper and is smelting ore. The object in offering stock for sale is to pay miners for taking out ore; the ore to be used to pay for a smelter. When the smelter plant is installed there will not be any more stock for sale and the stock will soon be par. THERE IS NO ELEMENT OF RISK in this. We have THE ORE in SIGHT and its value has been ascertained by the best assayers in the west; also by the chemist employed by the smelter at Topeka, Kan. By calling at room 10, opera house building, you can see the ore and maps of the mine.

STORIES OF SALISBURY

Incidents in the Career of England's Former Premier.

BEGAN AS A NEWSPAPER WRITER.

His Experience "Reaching It" in Australia—Romantic Meeting of His Future Wife—Touching Tribute to Her Memory—His Practical Interest in Electricity and Chemistry—A Scientist as Well as a Statesman.

Lord Salisbury, whose death has just removed one of the most eminent of British statesmen, might almost be said to have had hereditary statesmanlike attainments. He traced his ancestry back to Norman times, when Robert Sittell, founder of the family, was a soldier of renown in the days of William Rufus. The Salisbury branch of the Cecil, however, had its origin from the second son of Sir William Cecil, Lord Burleigh, Queen Elizabeth's famous minister. Robert Cecil became secretary of state and lord high treasurer, like his father before him, and eclipsed his elder brother, who had been created Earl of Exeter, in political reputation. Sir Robert Cecil was made Baron Cecil of Essendine in 1603 and Viscount Cranborne the next year. In 1606 the title of Salisbury was brought into the family, when he was made Earl of Salisbury. James, the seventh earl, was made marquis in 1789. Sir Robert's son, the second earl, sat in the house of commons during the commonwealth. The fourth earl was a Catholic and conspired for the restoration of James II. The first Marquis of Salisbury served for some time in the commons and was Lord Chamberlain from 1783 to 1804, a fellow of the Royal Society and a patron of the arts and sciences. James, the second marquis, was lord privy seal in Lord Derby's first administration and in 1858 was lord president of the council. The last named nobleman, father of the late marquis, married the daughter of Bamber Gascoyne, a merchant of the city of London, and on this side the statesman just dead could claim descent from three aldermen of the city.

The late Lord Salisbury, whose full name was Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne Cecil, was a second son, and apparently not one of his father's favorites, as he was kept on so meager an allowance that he had to write for the newspapers and reviews to maintain himself.

He was successful at this, for he was not only well educated and rather dextrous with his pen, but his position as the son of the lord privy seal and president of the council gave him unusual opportunities for getting inside information. At this time in his life Lord Robert and Millicent, the painter, then also a young man, were chums, and they went to Australia together. They lived in a shanty and roughed it at the gold fields for awhile without getting much richer.

Returning to England, the young Cecil promptly married against his father's wishes and went to parliament for the Stamford division, which he represented until the death of his elder brother gave him the marquessate and a seat in the house of lords.

Lord Salisbury was no respecter of persons in his moments of absent-mindedness. A recent London dispatch stated that King Edward had an unusual experience with the distinguished statesman and diplomatist. It appears that to Lord Salisbury an audience had been given by his majesty. During a lull in the conversation he lapsed into one of his spells of absent-mindedness. On a table close to his lordship was a portrait of the king. He took it up, gazed at it long and critically and then remarked: "Poor old duffer. I wonder if he is as stupid as he looks." Edward is not a "duffer," and he doesn't look "stupid." So of course there was no sting in Lord Salisbury's observation.

The legend descriptive of the first meeting of Lord Salisbury, then Lord Robert Cecil, and his future wife has the merit of being interesting even if its claim to the higher merit of accuracy is doubtful. "Miss Alderson," the raconteur states, "was by some accident shut in a village church she had entered to sketch. Night was stealing on before the young lady discovered this, and she began to get alarmed. She tried in vain to force the door, and shouting and rapping at the window proved useless. As a last resource she rang the bell that summoned the villagers to church each Sunday. It happened there was staying in the village a young gentleman who declined to be influenced by statements that the devil was in the belfry. Though he could not persuade any one to accompany him, he set out on his errand of rescue undeterred. Within six months after their meeting in the church they had become engaged."

At the age of twenty-seven Lord Robert married the daughter of Edward Hall Alderson, a barrister, who afterward rose to a judgeship and was made Baron Alderson by his son-in-law after he had risen to a powerful position in the state. It was a love match, and for a second son, with his fortune still to make, it was not one to commend the ready approval of his father, but it brought the future statesman a talented and sympathetic wife. Lord Salisbury never recovered from the loss he suffered in 1890 by the death of his wife.

The most Englishman he was not, as made about the feelings of his heart. He made no parade of emotion. But one, at a church meeting at Hatfield, he was seen to shed a single tear.

thought who had died, he spoke of the sorrow which had come into his own life.

"When a man has done his work and those whom he loves pass on by one behind the veil," said the aged statesman, "there is nothing better for him than to die as our friend has died, full of years and leaving behind him a memory fragrant with good deeds. He should be able to say in the words of an obscure but beautiful modern poet:

"When my last hour grows dark for me
I shall not fear
Death's dreaded face to see,
Death's voice to hear.
"I shall not fear the night
When day is done,
My life was loyal to the light
And served the sun."

In 1874 Lord Disraeli, then prime minister, appointed Lord Salisbury secretary of state for India. They had been bitter political antagonists and Lord Salisbury had some doubt about the propriety of taking office under a chief he had so frequently attacked, but on the advice of Mr. Gladstone he accepted it. It was soon after their reunion in Downing street that the Tory chief described his colleague as "a great master of gibes and flouts and jeers." Lord Salisbury took the description without offense, and Disraeli afterward amply atoned for it by public expressions of consideration. It was a time for a strong man at the head of Indian affairs. There was famine in India. Salisbury grasped the situation with ability. He adopted Lord Northbrook's policy with regard to the exportation of Indian grain in spite of its unpopularity, persuaded parliament to make a loan of £10,000,000 and chartered steamers to convey food to the distressed districts.

Even up to the beginning of his last sickness Lord Salisbury was a tireless worker. He was interested practically in chemistry and electricity, and applied it himself to his estate, Hatfield House, and elsewhere. He had a private chemical laboratory, where he spent much time. Several of his public addresses showed his lively interest in science, such as that at the opening of the electric railroad in Liverpool in 1893 and at the meeting of the British association in Oxford in 1894, over which he presided.

Writing of this phase of Lord Salisbury, the late Julian Ralph said about a year ago:

"Very pleasant to him are the hours he spends in his laboratory, which is said to be unsurpassed in completeness and modernness by any private laboratory in England. From his youth he has had a bent for this work, and in physics especially he has attained such knowledge as to be sought for counsel and discussion by some of the greatest minds in that field. It is even said of him that if he had not been a great statesman he would have been a greater scientist."

"The reason that he has written and spoken very little upon scientific subjects is that because of his modesty and because of his association with many brilliant lights in science he perhaps too fully realizes that other men have a better right than he to discuss in public those matters in which he feels himself to be only a student."

BIG SHIP'S LAUNDRY BAG.

Washing of the Sailed Liners of an Ocean Line.

If you happen to stroll out on one of the piers where the big ocean greyhounds dock a few hours after a vessel has arrived you will see down at one end a number of great heaps of linen piled up like haystacks in a farmer's meadow. Working in this field of white, counting and sorting and piling, are eight or ten men, almost hidden by the stacks that stand as high as their heads all about them. This heaped up accumulation, sufficient to stock an ordinary store, is the contents of the liner's laundry bag for just a single voyage being counted and assorted preparatory to going to the tub and ironing board.

A big passenger liner like the Oceanic or the New York is practically a floating city of from 1,500 to 2,000 persons, and the week's wash at the end of each trip—that is, for six or seven days—contains from 25,000 to 40,000 pieces.

The largest ships carry probably 50,000 separate pieces, the supply for an average voyage including about 10,000 napkins and a like number of sheets and towels, 5,000 pillow slips and 1,000 tablecloths, besides jackets, aprons, counterpanes and the various other articles necessary to the operations of the galleys, saloons and staterooms.

In addition to this, of course a large reserve stock is kept on shore by each of the steamship companies to make up deficiencies due to losses or wear. The ship's linen is in charge of one of more linen keepers and is stored by the thousand pieces in convenient lockers. Each day the various stewards report to the linen keeper with the soiled pieces they have gathered up and in exchange receive fresh ones.

As soon as the liner reaches port on either side of the Atlantic the soiled linen is counted, sorted, put into immense sacks and hurried away to the laundry. Some of the lines have special establishments for doing their own work and keep a large force busy all the time. Others have contracts with regular laundries especially equipped for doing this class of washing and ironing in quick time. In estimating the cost of operating an ocean liner, the laundry bill is an item that the average person would not think of as important perhaps, but it is easy to see that it reaches a very big sum in the course of a year, that of the big international Mercantile Marine company fleet—which includes and is the largest fleet of passenger steamers in the world—amounting well up toward a million dollars.

PARKER WAS ANGRY.

New York Journal Secures Arrest of Fleischmann's Chauffeur.

UNEASY AUTO CAUSES TROUBLE.

The Mayor of Cincinnati Threatened to Get His Automobile Driver Out of the Clutches of the Law.

Julius Fleischmann, mayor of Cincinnati, left $250 of his money in Kingston the other day, following a performance in the principal thoroughfare of his big touring automobile, says a Kingston (N. Y.) special to the New York World. Joseph P. Bridges, Mr. Fleischmann's chauffeur, nearly ran down Judge Alton B. Parker of the court of appeals, for which he was arrested at the instance of the much angered judge.

Mayor Fleischmann had to go to the recorder's court to rescue Bridges. At the door of the courthouse he was served with a summons in an action for damages by a bottler whose horse had run away at sight of the wild flying auto. This grievance, with several other liabilities incurred by the auto, was settled by the Cincinnati man, who was forced to spend twenty-five minutes in getting his chauffeur out of the clutches of the law.

Bridges arrived here with the car about noon to await the arrival of his employer and some Ohio friends coming on a train. The day was hot and the streets almost deserted.

Whether to cool himself or create excitement Bridges did not say, but he started up Broadway from the West Shore station at a ten mile an hour pace. He went through all the streets and had the center of the stage. When he started to return to the station to meet his employer he sped down Broadway so fast that railroad men say a forty mile an hour train could not have overtaken him.

The car overtook a surrey in which were Chief Judge Parker and County Judge John G. Van Etten, who were being driven by Henry Kelder.

The ponderous machine passed within a foot of the high horse's head, and both horses immediately reared. Kelder held them in as best he could, but they started to run.

Then Judge Parker and Judge Van Etten leaned over and also pulled on the reins, finally succeeded in bringing the team to a stop.

In the meantime the touring car had not been idle. A team owned by Peter F. Zeh, a bottler, became frightened, started to run and landed in the front window of the Kingston Electric company's offices. The big plate glasses were smashed into smithereens, and electric fans were scattered everywhere.

A small boy who was in the wagon was thrown ten feet in the air, but landed on his feet unharmed. Chauffeur Bridges and his machine continued to the depot.

Chief Judge Parker had been frightened by his experience, but now he was angry. Calling to a policeman, he ordered the chauffeur's immediate arrest. Bridges was arraigned before Recorder Carpenter. The hearing adjourned until Mayor Fleischmann arrived. As Mayor Fleischmann entered the courthouse he was summoned by Mr. Zeh in a supreme court action for damages.

Mr. Zeh also appeared as complainant against Bridges.

Mayor Fleischmann talked with every one who had claims against him. Then he made the following settlements by check:

Ex-Mayor William D. Brinner, as counsel for Mr. Zeh, $150; Kingston Electric company, for broken windows, $30; George Hutton, for damages to building, $10; recorder's court, $5; Joseph M. Fowler, his attorney, $55. After that the complaint was withdrawn and Bridges discharged.

"It's rather expensive," said Mayor Fleischmann as he entered his car, "but I want to get to Fleischmann's Corners before dark."

The Cincinnati mayor has a large estate near Kingston which is known as Fleischmann's Corners.

It was a Mean Yankee Trick. "Send a bloomin' pothole to room 214 at once!" Trembling with fright and excitement, a wild-eyed young man rushed up to the clerk of the Auditorium Annex demanding instant aid, says a Chicago dispatch. The clerk recognized him as N. F. Hunter, a member of the All Star British golf team. He had left his room early for a stroll along the lake front, leaving his brother, also a golfer, asleep in his room. When he returned no brother was to be seen. Where the large folding bed had stood a chiffonier appeared. The chiffonier was a hollow sham that did service in the night as a folding bed. It had closed up like a jackknife, and Brother Hunter was securely imprisoned.

Orders $25,000 For a Correggio. J. Pierpont Morgan is said by W. O. Fuchs to have offered $25,000 for a painting owned by Mr. Fuchs, says a Chicago dispatch. It is Correggio's "Oupid Disarmed." Professor Fuchs paid $1,000 for the painting a few months ago and soon after discovered its value. He refuses to sell for less than $100,000. The genuineness of the painting has been satisfactorily established. Some art collectors are making bids for the painting.

Wanted: New Safety Razor Vendors. Harry Munster, alias Steven J. Llewellyn, arrested for burglary in St. Louis, admitted to the police that he received a box in a safety razor vault as a reward for the burglary.

TRAMPS CAPTURE TRAIN.

Run It Thirty-Mile Miles and Wind Up It Still.

With clubs for weapons a party of 4000 tramps captured a Reading Railroad company freight train running between Bound Brook and Trenton the other day and by fusillades of ears of corn, watermelons, potatoes and apples repulsed a force of the company's workmen who tried to retake it.

After the train had been kept going continuously from Belle Meade, where it was captured, to Trenton Junction, a distance of about thirty-five miles, three constables and three policemen, summoned by telegraph, defeated the tramps in a hand to hand fight and took three prisoners. The other nine escaped.

The train was a regular freight from Bound Brook to Trenton, stopping at all stations to take on the produce of the Jersey market gardeners for the Trenton and Philadelphia markets.

When the train came to a halt at Belle Meade the tramps came out of the woods with a whoop. Four of them climbed into the engine cab and five more into the caboose, where were the conductor and three other members of the train crew. The remainder of the tramp squad climbed on top of the cars or into them. Few of the cars were locked because of the stops made at such short distances for taking on freight.

Along the tracks on the way to Trenton Junction the train had to pass at least five gangs of workmen. On approaching any of these gangs of workmen the engineer risked the blow of the cudgels and slowed the train, while other members of the crew shouted lustily:

"Help us! Tramps have captured the train!"

At no time did any of the gangs of workmen refuse to attempt to recapture the train from the tramps, but every attempt proved futile. Watermelons burst over the heads of the attacking parties; potatoes and hard apples struck them in their eyes and on their noses.

As the train halted at the junction the police rushed aboard. The tramps made a desperate fight against arrest. Two constables and a policeman were knocked unconscious. The clubs of the policemen and constables cut long gashes in the heads of the tramps. The fight lasted for more than fifteen minutes.

NOVEL VACATION DEVICE.

How Two Summer Girls Paid Seashore Expenses.

The vacation device of two Los Angeles (Cal.) girls who desired a summer outing that would prove both pleasant and profitable will appeal to many parents, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. These young women established themselves on the beach of a popular Pacific coast seaside resort, erected a large tent and furnished it with rugs, pillows, hammocks, cushions, blankets, toys, tin palls, hoes, and spades, building blocks, etc. Then they hung out a sign reading: "Day Nursery. Check Your Babies Here. Best of Care. Moderate Charges."

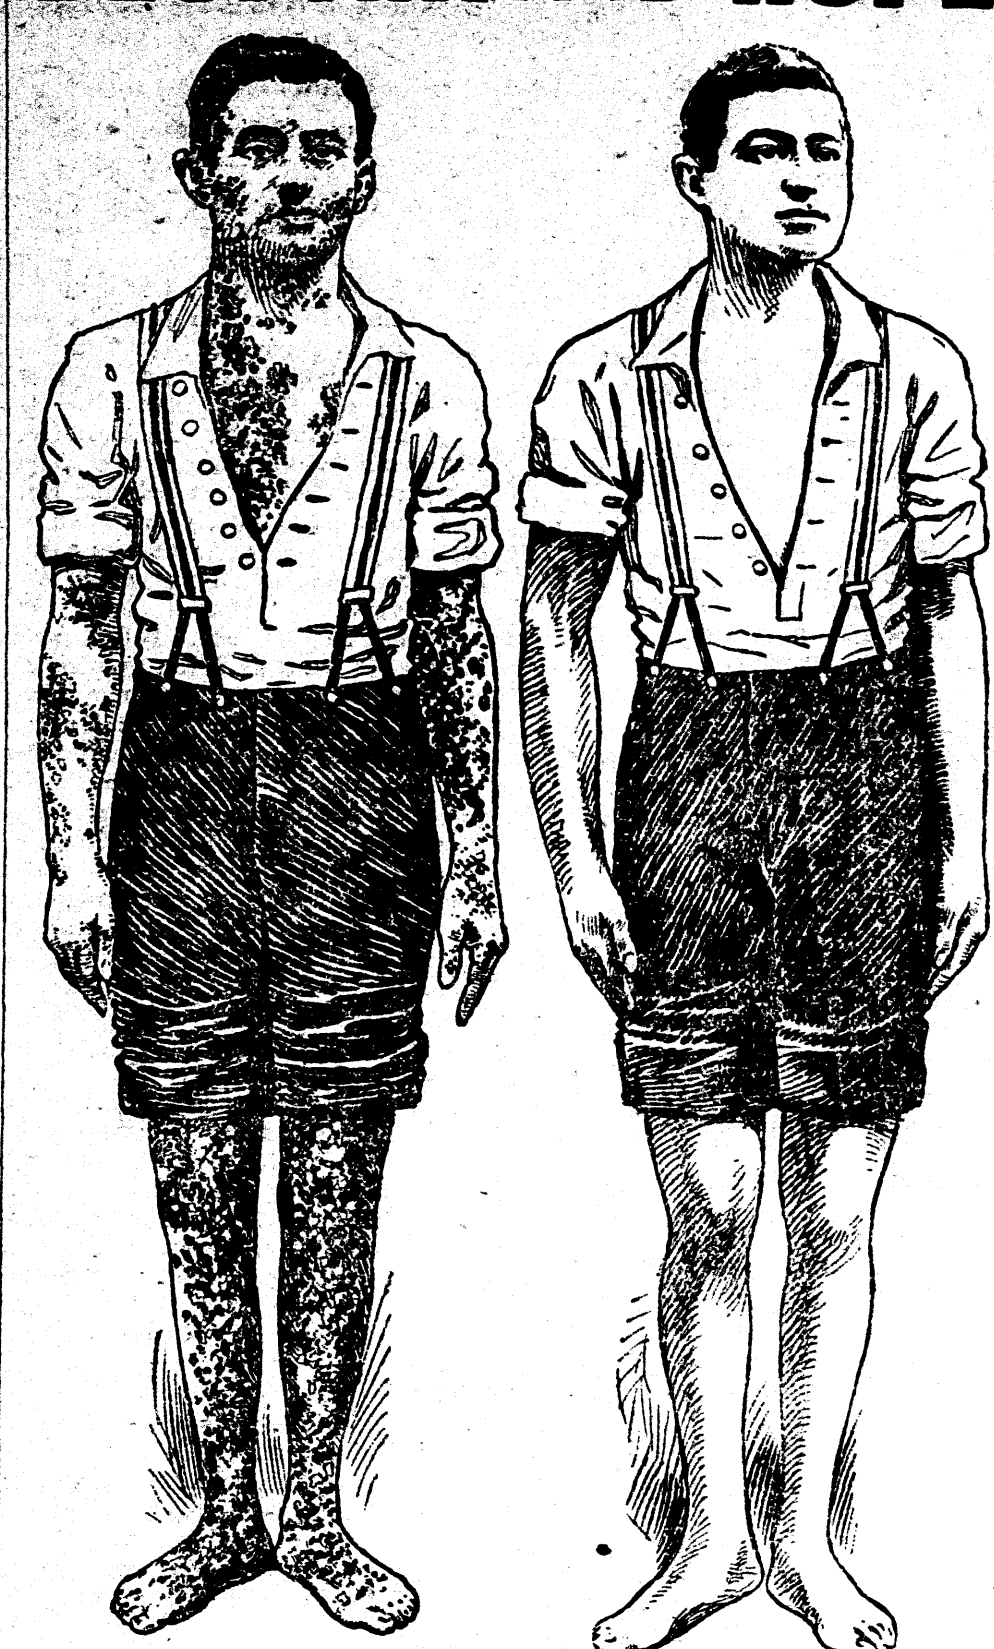

At first it looked as if the experiment might not prove successful, but after one or two mothers, more daring than the average, had given the nursery a trial others followed, and in a little while the girls were compelled to employ assistant caretakers. Parents going on a walk checked their whole family, mothers ready for the morning dip deposited the baby, fathers tired of answering "What for?" took their youngsters to the tent, had them entered, received brass checks to correspond with those around the necks of their youngsters and began to enjoy life once more; young aunts going fishing took little nieces and nephews to the Los Angeles girls, and the latter in every instance guaranteed to watch over their charges and kept their promise.

"We are doing more business than the snake charmer," said one of them. "We are not only making our expenses, but will have a big surplus at the end of the season. We shall stay as long as the crowds do. Some of the same children come every day. The mothers know that they are in good hands, for we direct their amusement, correct their speech and give them a constant change of occupation so that they do not become restless and fret. The tent is better for them than so much hot sun."

Woman Kills Big Game. Few women can boast of killing two tigers, three bears, two panthers and a number of smaller animals. This is the record established by Mrs. James C. Donnet, daughter of John H. Whitehouse of the Larches, Irvington-on-Hudson, N. Y., says a New York dispatch. Mrs. Donnet went to India some time ago with her husband, who is an officer in the British army, and her surprised and delighted parents have just received from her a letter which shows that their delicately nurtured daughter has been teaching the athletic British girls a few things in the art of killing wild beasts in their native jungle.

Had Ninety Adopted Daughters. Fritz Adolph, who died the other day in Arizona, once had ninety adopted daughters, says a St. Louis dispatch. For many years he was proprietor of a famous beer garden in South St. Louis, in which all the attendants were women. Adolph ignored suggestions from the authorities that his manner of conducting the business was not quite satisfactory. Finally the council passed an ordinance forbidding the serving of drinks by women. Thereupon Adolph went into the orphan's court with his ninety waifs and adopted them all. They served him faithfully for many years.

DESPAIR AND HOPE

A Tragic Life Story.

If there is anything in the theory that we get our heaven and hell here on earth, it could be said with perfect truth that a $1 medical prescription known as D. D. D. literally lifted this man out of hell. The awful miseries of a poisoned skin can be understood only by the afflicted. The nights of sleepless agony with hands tied to prevent tearing the flesh, the random general condition which results, and the black hopelessness of life can all be visibly traced in the first of these photos. As will be seen, this man is a man of powerful physique, but it will be seen from his face in the first picture that it is a grim struggle to live and keep up his courage.

In contrast, if the reader will fairly consider the picture after treatment with D. D. D., a new man is seen. Study this picture; contrast the two. Something has worked a wonder here. Reader, it was nothing on earth but D. D. D. and a kind Providence which directed the attention of this man to a public announcement about this medicament and its wonderful work in such cases. Providence went farther than this; it gave him some confidence in what he read. He made up his mind that he would try it. To this fact he owes all the peace, content and happiness so plainly seen in his face in the second picture. He states that after the third application of the remedy all his previous distress had disappeared entirely. The fevered condition resulting from continued irritation had subsided and he slept soundly nights.

The name of this gentleman is Mr. Henry Walters, of St. Louis, Mo. We have the sworn affidavit of Mr. Walters that in just twenty-nine days after starting treatment with D. D. D. he discontinued further use of it, every visible trace of the disease having disappeared. Since that time not a trace of the trouble has shown itself on any part of his body. His hair has since grown long and the scrubby beard previously grown on his face to hide the sores, is kept cleanly shaved, and he is today a man of strikingly fine appearance, with the highest ambition and activities in life and every happiness possible to most men here on earth. Results of this kind that are proven to be directly due to a preparation of this sort certainly call for public appreciation. This prescription in sealed bottles, bearing authentic label of D. D. D. Co. of Chicago, sold at $1. The bottle is a liberal one and has proved sufficient to entirely cure many cases.

Eczema

is probably the worst and most stubborn of skin diseases, and it was for this that this prescription was studied out and perfected, but all skin diseases are caused by parasites or some form of germ life in the skin-structure. The prescription quickly and surely annihilates all forms of parasitic life lodged anywhere in the skin. Many people imagine they have blood trouble when they break out with some form of skin affection, but not in one case in a hundred is this a fact, as the very healthiest blood is often found in the strongest men affected with breaks and eruptions of some kind in the skin. In all such cases the trouble is at the surface or near the surface, and it can be searched out and annihilated completely by this preparation.

The Above Is True.

We have received carefully prepared and fully attested documents and particulars regarding the case above mentioned of Mr. Henry Walters, of St. Louis, a victim of psoriasis, a form of eczema. We can say to all persons afflicted with any form of skin disease that the medical testimony submitted shows beyond a doubt that they can cure themselves by the use of this preparation. We say beyond a doubt. We mean this fully, providing the affection is really a skin disease, as it has been shown that each of the known germs that cause skin affection have been entirely routed out and conquered by the preparation.

FINANCIAL MARKET.

New York, Aug. 31.—There was considerable growth in the volume of business in stocks to day and the snow of strength which was quite apparent, but not activity nor strength lasted the day out.

During the active period of the market advances over Saturday of 1 to 2 points had become quite numerous, but last prices of the day show very few gains in excess of a point. The movement of strength was evidently due largely to continued action by professional traders. Professional sentiment was more cheerful on account of improved factors in the general outlook, but there was nothing to show that any considerable outside demand for stocks played a part in the day's movement.

There is no doubt confidence over the money situation has been greatly improved, and the feeling of the market is that the possibility of the treasury of depositing $40,000,000 of government money in the treasury in September.

This is felt to be an effective safeguard against the threat of a violent stringency of money, and the feeling of the market is that the treasury is in a position to meet any emergency in their conditions for the time being. The quoted rates are only slightly lower, but sentiment conditions, which have been attached to the making of loans for some time past, are relaxed.

FUNERALS.

DAVIS.

The funeral of Miss Lillian Davis was held Monday afternoon at the family home on South West street and there was a large attendance of the sorrowing friends of the deceased. Miss Davis' sunny disposition had endeared her to many, whose hearts were touched with sadness by her untimely death. Dr. P. S. Hayden, formerly pastor of the Congregational church, of which the deceased had been a faithful member, was in charge of the services and spoke feelingly and beautifully from the text, "More than conquerors through Christ." He said in part:

"It is one thing not to allow ourselves to be overcome by an adversary. It is another and greater thing to force him to surrender to us his treasures. Some people are simply not overwhelmed by pain and difficulties and obstacles in life; that is a great thing. But there is occasionally one who not only stands her ground, but with every triumph gets new strength; carries off, so to speak, the enemies very guns to help her wage more successful war. It was so with Miss Lillian.

"Hawthorne said that the human face was never so beautiful as when the soul had passed through a great struggle. When it has triumphed on unseen battle fields then that moral beauty which alone comes from conflicts waged successfully is its own. Surely it is true of the soul, more even than of the countenance that its strength and its beauty and vigor and culture are all drawn into it from struggles borne with the help of the soul's God. There are fights out of which men come and say, 'Well at last the fight is over and I am not undone.' There are fights of life long and earnestly waged through which men have gone gaining in joy and strength and sweetness, till at last when it is over men say, 'Conquerors; more than conquerors.' In a death like this some may mistakenly dwell on the sweet compensations God furnishes for weariness and the brave endurance of pain. There are such deaths. This is not one of them, when we dwell on that. Sometimes a man may say, 'I am tired and shall soon sleep,' then like a weary traveler wrap his cloak about him and lie down. This is not such a case. The touch of human life burned low, but was not quenched by the dark veiled angel. No, the lamp of life has gotten a fresh lighting at God's great sun itself, eternal life. The wall which descending has seemed to many a soul to shut it out from earth is to such a one as Miss Lillian, that which has taken her fully into the large life of God and that is the Christian victory."

Dr. J. R. Harker assisted in the service with an earnest prayer and a quartet, Miss Helen Kennedy, Miss Jessie Sharpe, Messrs. Marcus Robinson and Melville Kennedy, sang "Oh, Cease My Wandering Soul" and "Just As I Am."

From the house the cortege moved to Diamond Grove cemetery, where the grave was hidden beneath beautiful flowers. The service at the grave was said by Dr. Hayden. The flowers were in charge of Mrs. W. D. Roberts, Misses Mary Huntley, Jessie Huestep, Grace Wharton and Annie Hinrichsen. The bearers were Dr. Robert Buckthorpe, Messrs. Thomas Buckthorpe, Charles Gridley, Edward Bogle, J. H. Rayhill, Jr., and Frank Huntley.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

Snow's residence the marauders got into the kitchen by a window, but locked doors stopped further progress. About midnight W. D. Mathers heard some one attempting to open a screen door and the burglar or burglars were frightened away. Visits were also paid to the homes of Fred Hubsch and Ernest Andrews.
